Donald Lord, former greenhouse manager and head gardener for Churchill Downs, died Thursday at his home from complications from emphysema. He was 61.

Lord, who had worked at Churchill Downs for 42 years, was nationally known for his tulip patterns, which differed for each Kentucky Derby.

In a 1987 Courier-Journal article, Lord said keeping the tulips in bloom for Derby Day is a tricky proposition.

"You know, it's odd," he mused. "I don't know if it's the crowd or what -- but it seems like these tulips almost know that they need to hold on till Derby Day. It makes you wonder, sometimes, if they can hear."

Lord was also responsible for the flower horseshoe that greets each Derby winner in the winner's circle.

He is survived by his wife, the former Norma Tingle; a son, Donald D. Lord; three daughters, Susan R. Lord, Sharon D. Pilkenton and Debra J. Jones; four brothers, Gene, Robert, Authur and David Lord; three sisters, Margie Williams of Hollywood, Fla., Janie Bronham of Pikeville and Linda Lord; five grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be at 2 p.m. Sunday at Evergreen Funeral Home, 4623 Preston Highway, with private burial at Cave Hill Cemetery.

Visitation will be at the funeral home from 10 a.m.-9 p.m. Saturday.

The family requests memorial contributions be made to the American Lung Association of Kentucky.
