FAREWELL Margaret Tingle helped raise thousands of children through parks job Entertaining spirit rides on: Newspaper Obituary and Death Notice
Birmingham News (AL) - March 18, 2007

Deceased Name: FAREWELL Margaret Tingle helped raise thousands of children through parks job Entertaining spirit rides on Margaret Tingle was something of a Mary Poppins figure in Birmingham's West End in the mid-20th century, an entertaining governess for generations of kids growing up in the blue-collar neighborhood.

People remember her shooting through astride her trusty bicycle en route to Harrison Park where she presided as park director, a position she also held at Ensley Park. Before there were public kindergartens or afterschool programs, the parks were a center of learning, sports and art, particularly under Tingle's direction.

She taught children to read and paint. She taught them to swim and to play tennis and basketball. She organized games, skits, a rhythm band. At her funeral, one man recalled her donning a pair of boxing gloves and teaching him to box.

In summers, Tingle directed a day camp at Lane Park where mill kids from the industrial west side could get away to nature and handicrafts, camp-style cooking, singing and music. Even on her days off, Tingle's porch on Fourth Street, a couple of blocks from Arlington, was a center for tutoring and music. She never married or had children of her own, but from 1933 to 1978 in the employ of the Birmingham Park Board, she helped raise thousands of children. She died in January at 91.

She came from modest means. Her father left during the Depression seeking work and never returned, leaving Margaret as the family breadwinner, supporting her mother and a brother who lived with her until their deaths. Despite her limited income, she carefully managed her money and saved.

But when she spent, she bought fine things: a piano, antiques and china. At 17, she chose her own silver pattern and bought sterling piece by piece. She had four silver tea services for entertaining. She was a world traveler and a lifelong learner.

Though her highest degree was from Ensley High School, she was constantly taking courses on art, antiques and architecture. She even studied Arabic. In her 80s, she journeyed to Bath, England, for courses on British history.

More a Victorian than a flapper, she always wore dresses, and at church or on formal occasions, hats. A member of the Lindsay Clan of Scotland, she also wore kilts to celebrate her heritage. At her funeral, her kilt was laid in her casket.

In her younger days, she was an athlete herself. Besides riding her bike all over town (she didn't get a driver license until the 1950s), she was a runner, going as far as trying out for the 1936 Olympics as a sprinter. She was relentlessly active into her 80s as a gardener and garden club member.

In the early 1950s, Tingle was among a group of citizens who helped raise $50,000 to buy Arlington Antebellum Home and Gardens and preserve it. Just two blocks from her home, the Greek Revival 1840s mansion inspired her imagination, her love for architecture and the finer things. Even after she moved away from West End to Homewood in 1981, she returned almost daily. A tree now grows there, planted in her honor.

For those who grew up in West End, Tingle remained a point of connection. She was always at neighborhood reunions, and she held an annual Christmas party.

Her love of entertaining continued after her death. Tingle had planned her own funeral in minute detail, the flowers and the music. A pianist played a solo and there was an opera singer. A bagpiper played "Amazing Grace." After the service, folks gathered for a going-away party, also designed by Tingle, featuring finger sandwiches, punch and mints, and music by a harpist.

She might not have been there in body, but she was certainly there in spirit.

Birmingham News (AL) - January 15, 2007

Deceased Name: TINGLE, MARGARET AILEEN

TINGLE, MARGARET AILEEN of Birmingham, passed way at Brookwood Hospital on January 13, 2007. Funeral Services will be held Tuesday, January 16, 2007 at Shades Mountain Baptist Church's Conference Center. Visitation will begin at 10:00 a.m., with a funeral service to celebrate a long and happy life at 11:00. A reception also at Shades Mountain Baptist follows at noon. Those wishing to accompany the family afterwards to Oak Hill cemetery for a brief burial ceremony are most welcome.

In Miss Tingle's 91 years, she touched the lives of so many people from so many walks of life here in Birmingham and Jefferson County. Margaret was with the Birmingham Park Board for 45 years, from 1933 until her retirement in 1978. During this time she was park Director at Harrison Park in West End, at Ensley Park and for many summers directed the Lane Park Day Camp. Additionally Margaret was a campcraft instructor and National Board member of the American Camping Association and for years tutored youngsters on her front porch in West End to enhance their scholastic experience. Earlier in her life Margaret taught at Blessed Sacrament Academy and at John Carroll High School. Many young Alabamian lives were touched and molded by the guidance and support Margaret provided during these years.

But Margaret Tingle's touch extended far beyond Birmingham's youth. She was an active member and worked diligently to enhance the programs of the Antiquarian Society, the Oak Hill Historical Society, the Caledonian Society, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Birmingham Museum of Art, the Birmingham Genealogical Society, the Birmingham Music Club, the Civic Opera Guild, Camp Winnataska, and worked with several support groups of the Alabama Symphony Orchestra. For many years she taught Sunday school at Ensley and West End Baptist churches. She later became a proud member of Shades Mountain Baptist Church.

Margaret was a member and officer of several Garden Clubs throughout the years and served frequently as a flower show judge. Many remember her own showcase gardens at her home in West End and later in Homewood.

Margaret's great love, however, was the Arlington Historical Association. She worked hard to ensure the restoration, beautification and upkeep of the historic Arlington house and its gardens in West End. She was recently recognized by the Association with a luncheon and tree planting on Arlington's grounds in her honor.

Margaret was preceded in death by her parents, William Bronough Tingle and Aileen Lindsay Tingle; brothers William and Lee (Robin) Tingle. She is survived by her brother Bruce Tingle and his wife Stella of Newport News, VA; nephew Ron Tingle and his wife Janet of Waynesville, NC; nephew Gene Tingle and wife Patty of Roswell, GA; nephew David Tingle and wife Jan Marie of Wilmington, NC. Grand Nephew Jeff Tingle and wife Julie live in Atlanta; grand nieces Lindsay and Katie Tingle live in Wilmington, NC.

The Tingle family wishes to thank Margaret's dear friends who have made this transition easier, Pastor Jerry Harris of Shades Mountain Baptist and the good folks at Johns Ridout's Valley Chapel in Homewood.

Dr. Norman Tingle Sr. dies at 84 He spent 45 years as a doctor in Northern Neck and made house calls till 1997 retirement : Newspaper Obituary and Death Notice
Richmond Times-Dispatch (VA) - May 13, 2006
Deceased Name: Dr. Norman Tingle Sr. dies at 84 He spent 45 years as a doctor in Northern Neck and made house calls till 1997 retirement
A funeral for Dr. Norman Rock "Jiggs" Tingle Sr., who spent 45 years as a doctor in the Northern Neck, will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at Bethel United Methodist Church in Lively.

Dr. Tingle, who made house calls until he retired in 1997, died Wednesday after a period of declining health. A resident of Rappahannock Westminster Canterbury in Irvington, he was 84.

"He touched a lot of lives here," said a son, Dr. Norman R. "Rocky" Tingle Jr. of Lively. "The patients would describe him as 'my doctor and my friend.' "

The son of a traveling salesman, the senior Dr. Tingle was born in Washington, N.C. The family moved to Richmond County, where he graduated from Farnham High School.

He was introduced to medicine while serving as a Navy surgical aide in the South Pacific during World War II. Encouraged by a ship surgeon, he applied for the Navy V-12 program and studied at the University of Virginia and the Medical College of Virginia.

While in Charlottesville, he met his future wife, Selma, at a dance at the Monticello Hotel.

After completing his internship at Stuart Circle Hospital in 1952, Dr. Tingle received an offer to work in a country practice in Nuttsville in Lancaster County with Dr. C.T. Peirce.

After Dr. Peirce's retirement in 1964, Dr. Tingle moved the practice to nearby Lively. His son joined the practice in 1988 and continues to operate it.

"I grew up watching him care for people," his son said. "I sort of got hooked on that."

Dr. Tingle was active with Bethel United Methodist Church and in the community. He served as chairman of the Lancaster School Board, leading it through the first year of desegregation in 1965, and was a driving force behind construction of a new high school in 1972.

"He understood that the body and the spirit and the family all went together," his son said, "and that's how he treated people."

Selma Tingle, his wife of 59 years, died in November 2005. In addition to his son, survivors include one daughter, Susanna T. Jett of Fredericksburg; another son, Thomas G. Tingle of Williamsburg; eight grandchildren; two sisters, Beatrice Warwick of Richmond and Lucyle Merriwether of Hilton Head, S.C.; and one brother, William A. Tingle of Marthasville, Mo.

Tom Tingle, and Jerry Miller: La Cholla plane crash kills two: Newspaper Obituary and Death Notice

Arizona Daily Star, The (Tucson, AZ) - November 20, 2005

Deceased Name: Tom Tingle, and Jerry Miller: La Cholla plane crash kills two

CORRECTION RAN NOVEMBER 24, 2005 A2

* A story published Sunday on B1 about a plane crash at La Cholla Airpark contained incorrect information. Tom Tingle, 68, was piloting a single-engine turbine Legend plane. He and his passenger, Jerry Miller, 58, flew in to attend a breakfast at the air park and did not take part in an air show or aerobatics. The cause of the crash is unknown.

Two men died Saturday morning when their experimental plane crashed at La Cholla Airpark, northwest of Tucson.

The men, residents of Carefree, were in a single-engine turbo propeller Legend plane, said Becky Mendez, spokeswoman for the Oro Valley Police Department.

The pilot, Tom Tingle, 68, and his passenger, Jerry Miller, 58, were preparing to return to Carefree when the plane crashed, Tingle's wife, Soffie, said in a phone interview.

"They flew down (to La Cholla) to perform an air show, probably doing aerobatics and other maneuvers," Soffie Tingle said. "When they were done, they went to take off to go home and the engine seized."

The plane crashed around 10:15 a.m., shortly after takeoff, into a desert area north of the runway but within the airpark, Mendez said.

The plane burst into flames when it hit the ground. The Golder Ranch Fire Department was brought in to put out the fire.

While there are residences in the surrounding area, the crash occurred about 100 yards from the nearest home and did not damage any personal property, said Golder Ranch Battalion Chief John Sullivan.

Soffie Tingle said the men had parachutes and safety gear, but the elevation was too low to use them.

Tingle was an Air Force and airline pilot before he retired, his wife said.

"Tom loved aviation and he loved that airplane," she said. "It was an experimental plane and we never had any problems with it."

A friend of the Miller family said this was Jerry Miller's second time going up in the plane with Tingle. Miller and his wife, Kathy, also of Michigan, have been coming to live in Arizona for the last 30 winters, Susan Doughan said.

The cause of the crash is under investigation.
